Notes

- Check this box if you are reporting an individual you believe is not meeting his or her fiscal obligations (e.g. someone who has not reported employment income or income from a sole proprietorship).
- You can report a corporation, a non-profit organization, a partnership or a trust that has business income.
- If you are reporting a sleeping-accommodation establishment, it is because you believe that the establishment is subject to the tax on lodging, but the operator does not bill the tax as required. A "sleeping-accommodation establishment" is an establishment in which at least one accommodation unit meets the following conditions:
 - it is offered for rent to tourists, in return for payment, for a period not exceeding 31 days, on a regular basis in the same calendar year; and
 - its availability is made public.

The establishments subject to the tax on lodging are hotel establishments (hotels, motels or inns), tourist homes (cottages, houses or furnished apartments), bed and breakfast establishments, educational establishments, camping establishments that offer ready-to-camp units, outfitting establishments and certain other sleeping-accommodation establishments, such as rooming houses.

The establishment must be located in one of the 21 tourism regions of Québec where the tax on lodging applies.
- Enter the date of birth of the individual if you know it; otherwise, enter his or her approximate age.
- Unreported income can include employment income, tips, rental income, business income or capital gains from the sale of an immovable.
- Taxable benefits are benefits often received by employees or shareholders. The value of such benefits must be included in income. For example, the benefit could be the use of an automobile or personal expenses paid by an employer.
- These are tax credits that the person claimed in an income tax return, for which the person was not eligible (e.g. the amount for a person living alone, the amount for a dependant, the tax credit for medical expenses, the tax credit for donations and gifts, the tax credit for childcare expenses, the tax credit for an on-the-job training period and the tax credit for investment).
- See note 3.
- Business operators in a sector covered by the mandatory billing measures (e.g. the restaurant and the remunerated passenger transportation sectors) must always provide their customers with bills without delay. The bill must be either prepared by hand or produced using a sales recording module, depending on whether the operator is registered for the QST.
- Give the actual or approximate amounts of the items you are referring to in your report that lead you to believe that the individual or business has failed to meet tax obligations such as those respecting income tax, consumption taxes, the tax on lodging or source deductions. For example, a contractor gives you the option of not paying the GST and QST if no bill is made out for renovation work. If the cost of the work is $5,000, you should enter $748.75 as the actual amount of the consumption taxes that would not be billed if you accepted the offer.
- The description of immovable assets can include a description of the asset, its location, the year of construction and the names of any other owners other than the individual or business you are reporting.
- The description of a vehicle can include the type of vehicle, make, model, year and licence plate number.
