

Income-Averaging for Forest Producers 2013

This form is to be completed by any certified forest producer (or member of a partnership that is a certified producer) that, when calculating its taxable income for 2009, claimed a deduction for a portion of its net income earned from the sale of timber related to the operation of a private woodlot.

If you were a certified forest producer, the amount deducted for one year must be included, in whole or in part, in your taxable income for one of the four subsequent years. The total amount must be included in your taxable income by the fourth year following the year covered by your income-averaging request. Therefore, 2013 is the last year in which you can include in your taxable income the portion of the amount deducted in 2009 that you did not include in your taxable income for 2010, 2011 and 2012.

In calculating your taxable income for the year in which you disposed of the private woodlot (or the year that includes the end date of the fiscal period in which the partnership disposed of the private woodlot) or for the year in which you ceased to be a member of the partnership, you must include any portion of the deduction that has not yet been included.

File a copy of this form for each woodlot and enclose all the copies with your income tax return.
